7 The invention provides environment aware messages delivery systems, apparatus and 8 methods. In example embodiments the system and method automatically deliver

9 messages to the user based on the environment around the user. In the system and

10 method, a portable message redirection agent cooperates with a message delivery service

11 manager in the environment to discover available message delivery service, and sets

12 message forwarding options without the user's operation. The system and method of the 13 invention can make full use of the existing message redirection mechanisms in more

14 flexible manner.
